SENIOR LIVING LIVE! Answering The Hard Questions for Your Loved One With Dementia

Thursday, February 24 | 4 p.m. (EST)

It's difficult to find the right words when your loved one with dementia asks hard questions like, "Where is my husband?" or, "Can I go home?". Each question represents an emotion or memory that they are unable to express, and they are looking for comfort.

Angelia Brigance, dementia author, speaker, and Executive Director at Arbor Terrace of Burnt Hickory, will help us find answers that get to the heart of the questions. She will show us how to respond in a way that gives them peace, without lying or reminding them of a reality that will hurt them. With practice, you can give comfort and share stories together.
